Question: Shire Hall Beach

Posted on 23 February 2017

My question is for the Minister for Energy, Environment and Climate Change.

This morning I raised the issue of the Andrews government's neglect of the Mount Martha foreshore reserve. I now raise the issue of the government's neglect of the Mornington foreshore reserve.

Shire Hall Beach is a small and lovely beach at the fringe of the Mornington Harbour precinct. Sadly the usually pleasant sandy aspect is currently nothing more than a collection of exposed rocks, totally unsuitable for the families and children that usually frequent the area.

I ask: what action has the minister taken to ensure that there is no further degradation of Shire Hall Beach at Mornington?
